

Supporting Your Awards Applications

Helping you to create excellent and compelling awards entries

Whether entering for industry, corporate responsibility or business awards you want your entries to be powerful and compelling, demonstrating your programmes and practises in the best possible light

However, the processes required to ensure your entries are of the highest standard can be time-consuming and a distraction from day to day work imperatives.

If you are simply looking for an objective view or if you would like to hand over the complete award entry exercise, our award-writing experts at CCWorks can help you in a variety of ways, including:

- An initial short review of your programme to offer an objective assessment of your chances
- Recommendations to strengthen future entries
- An assessment of your own draft entries
- Information gathering and stakeholder interviews
- Writing of awards applications
- Production of presentations to support your entry if required

Our awards experts, Christine Jenkins and Maggy Price, have many years experience of writing successful awards applications for blue-chip companies. We have an impressive record of over 75% short-lists and over 50% overall awards in the past three years.
